A BATTLE AT HAMMOND

One Person Killed and Several Others Wounded.

FIRED UPON BY FEDERAL TROOPS.

Uncle Sam's Soldiers Called Upon to Cross the Indiana-Illinois State Line—A Busy Day in Chicago—The President's Proclamation—Saturday's Riot Victims.

CHICAGO, July 9.—On Saturday a squad of thirty-six militiamen, under command of a lieutenant, sent out to guard a construction train whose purpose was to remove the wreckage piled on the tracks by the mob the night before, was savagely attacked by a mob numbering 10,000 persons. After the lieutenant had been laid low by a missile the mob pressed upon the soldiers, unheeding the warning of the troops to keep back.

The soldiers opened fire and several persons fell wounded. Undeterred by the rifle shots, the rioters again charged upon the soldiers, who used their bayonets, mortally wounding the leader of the mob. Unable to withstand the onset from overwhelming numbers, the soldiers were forced to retreat, several of them having been hurt.

The victims of this engagement were: John Burke, strike leader, killed by bayonet thrust through the abdomen. Wounded—Lieutenant Reed, Company C, Second infantry, I. N. G., struck on the head by stones, condition critical; Thomas Jackman, shot in back, will die; John Konderg, stabbed with bayonet, will die; unknown man, shot through liver, will die; unknown boy, 17-year-old, shot through abdomen, will die; Tony Gajenski, shot in right arm; Henry Williams, shot in left arm; John Kerr, shot in hip; unknown woman, shot in right hip.

At another point the police in firing over the heads of a mob killed a woman on a house top and wounded other persons. The dead woman was Martha Bach, aged 25.

A serious fight occurred at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Hammond, Ind., between a mob of 5,000 men and Company B, of the United States infantry, in which two of the mob are known to have been killed and several others, including one woman, are said to have been fatally wounded. The mob became so violent shortly after noon that a battalion of the first Illinois militia was sent down from Pullman. It drove the rioters over the state line, which runs just west of Hammond. Word was sent to Chicago for a company of regulars who could operate irrespective of the state line.

Captain Hart, with Company B of the Fifteenth infantry, was dispatched to the scene. The regulars were patrolling the tracks in a passenger coach when they were attacked by the mob with stones, some shots being fired. The troops at once returned the fire through the car windows, killing Charles Fleischer, who was shot through the bowels; fatally wounding Victor Vanceter, and slightly wounding W. H. Campbell in the leg, Victor Ritte in the leg, Mrs. Fleming in the knee and an unknown man in the hand. Three additional companies of regulars were sent from Chicago on a special train, arriving at 6 o'clock. The mob had driven out all the telegraph operators in town and had cut the telegraph wires, making it very difficult to obtain information from the place, but it is certain that there were no further disturbances.

A Pan Handle wrecking train, bearing twenty deputy marshals, was stoned by a mob at Twenty-second street last night, and the deputy marshals arrested two men. The mob still threw stones and fired on the marshals, who returned the fire, killing one man and wounding several others. Five cars and the oil house were burned at Twenty-second street.

Comparative quiet prevailed as a rule within this city yesterday, although there were, as might have been expected, a number of sporadic instances where little knots of malcontents gathered, became boisterous, and were finally scattered by a charge from the police. A number of small mobs formed, went rioting, firing and overturning cars, and some heads were cracked, and smaller brawls, mostly the result of too much bad whisky, were frequently reported at police headquarters. There was, however, no concerted effort at incendiarism or violence, although at a number of places individual cars were fired, several of which were destroyed. A coal train on the Eastern Illinois was ditched at Root street by a switch being misplaced after the engine and four cars had passed over.

The work of clearing the tracks in the Grand Trunk yards at Forty-ninth and Ashland streets, where debris from the hundreds of burned cars littered the tracks, was completed under police and military protection, the monotony, however, being enlivened by occasional police sallies when the gang of idlers watching the work became too large and threatening. At 4 p. m., when the finishing touches had been put on the work, nearly all the onlookers had disappeared, and the troops, laborers and police were withdrawn.

No sooner had they got well out of sight, however, than a gang of 800 men suddenly appeared, and with crowbars, picks and shovels tore up about an eighth of a mile of track before word could be got to the police department. They fled before another charge of the police, and the work of repair was again pushed forward.

Riotous mobs, consisting of men, women and children, took possession of the freight yards at Halsted, Morgan and Meagher streets in the afternoon. They burned cars and had everything their own way for nearly two hours. All of the reserve force of police officers on the west side had been detailed to the yards of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy and the Wisconsin Central roads earlier in the day and nothing lay in the path of the frenzied strikers and their friends.

Inspector Lewis detailed a squad of thirty police officers to the scene of the disturbance. The fire department had been called out on three different occasions, each time to extinguish flames in freight cars. Thirteen cars were burned. The mob gathered about the firemen when they arrived in response to an alarm, and greatly interfered in the work of extinguishing the fires.

The arrival of the police had but little effect. The bluecoats were hooted at and pelted with stones. The crowd numbered nearly 2,000, and was made up of the toughest element of the city. Well known thieves and other desperate men with whom the police of the Maxwell street station have had considerable trouble, mingled in the mob and took an active part in the disturbance. The police finally made a determined charge and drove the mob to the adjoining streets, and from the freight yards, clubbing the leaders freely. The police remained on duty all the afternoon, and the strikers were kept from doing further violence.

The conference announced for noon yesterday between a committee of the employes of Pullman and Second Vice President Wicks, of the company, did not occur, as no committee appeared. Mr. Wicks remained at his office until 2 o'clock waiting for the expected visitors. "We are always ready to receive our employes," he said, "and hear what they have to say. The position of this company in this matter is unchanged, however, and we have nothing more to say to the men than has already been said. The talk of a conference between Mr. Debs and myself is all a canard. We will not receive Mr. Debs, Mayor Hopkins or anyone else as representatives of our ex-employes. If the latter wish to talk to us they must come themselves and without outside representation."

"I believe the crisis has been passed, and that there will be no more serious trouble," said Mayor Hopkins this morning. "The shooting into the mob by state troops Saturday afternoon has shown the lawless element what it may expect if it persists in its outbreaks against law and order. The thugs and criminals who have masqueraded as striking workmen evidently believed the soldiers would not fire on them. Now they know better and they will, if I am not greatly mistaken, be more careful in the future."

Mayor Hopkins received from Governor Matthews, of Indiana, a dispatch authorizing him to send Illinois state troops into the state of Indiana at Hammond when necessary. The mayor wired Governor Altgeld, and received a reply saying that Hammond is practically a part of Chicago, and that he may use the Illinois state troops in accordance with Governor Matthews' permission whenever necessary for the purpose of suppressing lawlessness and restoring order in Illinois.

At the headquarters of the General Managers' association it is frankly admitted that not a railroad in Chicago is moving any trains except under a heavy military or police guard. Most of the roads are getting through a limited number of passenger trains, but the tie up of freight business is practically complete.

PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT.

The Chief Magistrate Sounds a Warning to Chicago's Disorderly Mobs.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Just before midnight President Cleveland issued the following proclamation:

"Whereas, by reason of unlawful obstructions, combinations and assemblages of persons, it has become impracticable, in the judgment of the president, to enforce by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings the laws of the United States within the state of Illinois, and especially in Chicago, within said state;

"And, whereas, for the purpose of enforcing the rightful execution of the laws of the United States and protecting its property and removing obstructions to the United States mails in the state and city aforesaid, the president has employed a part of the military forces of the United States.

"Now, therefore, I, Grover Cleveland, president of the United States, do hereby admonish all good citizens and all persons who may be or may come within the city and state aforesaid, against aiding, countenancing, encouraging or taking any part in such unlawful obstructions, combinations and assemblages; and I hereby warn all persons engaged in or in any way connected with such unlawful obstructions, combinations and assemblages to disperse and retire peaceably to their respective abodes on or before 12 o'clock noon on the ninth day of July instant.

"Those who disregard this warning and persist in taking part with a riotous mob in forcibly resisting and obstructing the execution of the laws of the United States, or interfering with the functions of the government, or destroying or attempting to destroy the property belonging to the United States or under its protection, cannot be regarded otherwise than as public enemies.

"Troops employed against such a riotous mob will act with all the moderation and forbearance consistent with the accomplishment of the desired end; but the necessities that confront them will not with certainty permit discrimination between guilty participants and those who are mingled with them from curiosity and without criminal intent. The only safe course, therefore, for those not actually unlawfully participating is to abide at their homes, or at least not to be found in the neighborhood of riotous assemblages.

"While there will be no hesitation or vacillation in the decisive treatment of the guilty, this warning is especially intended to protect and save the innocent."

The proclamation, practically declaring martial law in Chicago, was decided upon after a full discussion in the cabinet meeting. This is the action which General Miles has desired from the beginning, as it will give him more authority in the city. The following dispatch, which was sent from the war department to General Miles, serves in a measure to interpret the intention of the president's action:

"In view of the provisions of statute and for the purpose of giving ample warning to all innocent and well disposed persons the president has deemed it best to issue the following proclamation tonight. This does not change the scope of your authority nor your relations to the local authorities. You will please make this known to Mayor Hopkins."

Buffalo Men Will Not Strike.

BUFFALO, July 9.—About seven o'clock last night a telegram came to President Malacan, of the local branch of the A. R. U., from President Debs, directing him to call out his men, and giving his instructions as to what course to pursue. The telegram also begged Malacan to keep the men from rioting. Notwithstanding this order there will be no strike in Buffalo today, and there may not be one for several days. President Malacan has decided that there is nothing to be gained by calling out his men.

Indiana Strikers Undaunted.

WABASH, Ind., July 9.—The anticipated improvement in the railroad situation has not materialized. The blockade is almost complete on the Michigan division of the Big Four. The strikers are still united and confident, and their warnings to the Brotherhood engineers at this point have caused the latter to waver in their support of the company. The federal injunctions are ignored by the strikers, but there have been no arrests. On the Wabash traffic is paralyzed.

Strikers Not the Rioters.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Major General O. O. Howard is in command of the department of the east. He commands about 5,000 men. He has already sent the Ninth regiment, U. S. A., to Fort Sheridan, and he is preparing to send more. When seen at Governor's Island he said: "There are at present twenty odd thousand in the United States army. It is ample in size to fulfill the demands upon it, but of course I cannot tell how far this trouble is going to spread. I do not mean the strike. I mean the riots and disorder. I do not believe that the mobs are composed to a large per cent. of strikers. A lawless element has only taken advantage of the strike to commit depredations. This thing must be stopped before it goes any further."

Railway Union Officials Arrested.

CAIRO, Ills., July 9.—The situation at Cairo and Mound's Junction yesterday was very quiet, and there was no excitement outside of the arrest of several parties by Deputy United States Marshal Everhart, charged with obstructing the United States mails. Among those arrested was E. A. Dwyer, president of the Cairo branch of the American Railway union. All those arrested were taken to to Springfield.

The Tie Up at Fort Wayne.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., July 9.—None of the roads are attempting to move any trains except the Pennsylvania. The tracks for several blocks on either side of the station are patrolled by seventy-five deputy United States marshals, the Fort Wayne police force and a corps of special policemen. No one is allowed on the company's property unless he has passed a rigid examination.

Cars Burned at Danville, Ills.

DANVILLE, Ills., July 9.—Nine empty box cars, owned by the Big Four and Chicago and Eastern Illinois roads were burned here last evening. Earlier in the day a mob stoned a Wabash engine and refused to disperse at the sheriff's command. A company of militia charged the mob, several persons being badly hurt by the bayonets.

The Strike Reaches Toledo.

TOLEDO, O., July 9.—A general strike is ordered on all Toledo roads this morning. The Ohio Central went out at midnight, and the Wheeling and Lake Erie was tied up at the same time. J. C. Spence, one of Debs' lieutenants, arrived here last evening to take charge of the strike.

No Strike at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, July 9.—There seems to be no prospect of the strike fever reaching Pittsburg at present. Eight or ten regular Sunday meetings were held by the railroaders, but the American Railway union trouble was not formally considered except at one or two.

Kelley's Wealers in West Virginia.

KENOVA, W. Va., July 9.—Kelley's Wealers, who captured an eastbound train on the Chesapeake and Ohio at Vanceburg, Ky., Saturday night, arrived here yesterday. Under direction of Sheriff Lambert the militia arrested them and are now guarding them near the depot. Governor McCorkle and his legal advisers arrived at Kenova on a special train and tried to induce the army to go back to Kentucky, which they refused to do. The men received three meals yesterday and seem well contented. The general impression is that Governor McCorkle has made a mistake by stopping the men at Kenova, as they would have proceeded on through the state toward Washington.

Saved from Lynchers.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 9.—Lloyd White, a negro, was arrested near here last night charged with the shooting from ambush of Herbert Tucker the 16-year-old son of a leading farmer. Tucker died of his wounds, and his neighbors, having worked up a case of circumstantial evidence against White, had made arrangements to lynch him, but a sheriff arrested him just in time to lodge him in jail.

Picnickers Run Down by a Train.

GLENDALE JUNCTION, L. I., July 9.—The Far Rockaway train due in Long Island City at 6:25 struck a four horse truck containing a picnic party of about twenty at the Long Island railroad crossing last evening. No one was killed, although the entire party were thrown high into the air, and nine of them quite seriously injured, though it is not thought that any will die.

More Anarchist Conspirators Arrested.

PALERMO, July 9.—Seven anarchists were arrested here yesterday on the charge of being concerned in a plot to murder influential citizens. Among the men said to be killed was Governor [illegible] who was the promotor of the [illegible] Ross of sympathy presented to Premier Minister Crispi after Lega had attempted to assassinate him.

Atkinson Gets Ten Years.

CAMDEN, N. J., July 7.—Charles Atkinson, convicted of feloniously assaulting his 17-year-old stepdaughter, was sentenced to ten years at hard labor. Lawyer Wartman made a motion for a new trial. The motion will be argued on Thursday next.

Another Georgia Lynching.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 9.—In Irwin county Saturday morning Charles Roundtree, a negro, was lynched for attempting to rape the 16-year-old daughter of his employer, Hon. Micajah Faulk.

Killed by a Switch Engine.

LITTLE ROCK, July 9.—Second Lieutenant T. Arthur Thomason, a member of the National Fencibles of Washington, was killed by a switch engine at the Union depot at 7 o'clock last night.

Delaware's Meager Peach Crop.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 9.—The railroad officials of this state estimate that the maturing peach crop will amount to 150,000 baskets, as compared with 7,000,000 baskets last year.

NUGGETS OF NEWS.

The Philadelphia and Reading railroad is carrying more coal to market than ever before.

Forty suspected anarchists, including many Italians, have been arrested in Marseilles.

S. B. Chaney was appointed postmaster at Woodmore, Md., vice J. J. Foreacre, resigned.

By the capsizing of a sailboat Antoine Larock and Albert Fullin, of Alpena, Mich., were drowned.

From eating poisonous berries at a picnic two children of Richard March died on a train going to Providence, R. I.

Charged with killing a child, Jim Bell, a negro, of Chatham county, Tenn., was seized by a mob and riddled with bullets.

To get 22-year-old Jerry Hoskins for a husband Mrs. Alice Grinnell, aged 72, of Wichita, Kan., gave him $10,000, and is now charged with insanity.

Steamer Destroyed by Fire.

WILMINGTON, N. C., July 9.—The steamer Murcheson, running summer schedule between Wilmington and Caroline Beach, burned to the water's edge near Big Island, nine miles below this city. She was on her return trip and had no passengers aboard except Captain Sellers, wife and two children, all of whom were saved without injury. The steamer is a total loss.

Refused a New Trial.

LANCASTER, Pa., July 9.—Judge Livingstone handed down a decision refusing a new trial to ex-Sheriff George W. Tomlison, convicted of aggravated assault and battery at the January court. Abraham Frankford trespassed on Tomlison's premises in search of rabbits, and Tomlison shot him, inflicting serious injuries. Sentence will not be passed until Aug. 18.

Thrown from His Carriage and Killed.

WELLSBORO, Pa., July 9.—While William H. Vermilyea, proprietor of the Hotel Vermilyea at Gaines, and a well known local politician, was driving down the mountain side near his home his horse ran away, and he was thrown out of his carriage and killed.

Fatally Cut by Reaper Knives.

YORK, Pa., July 9.—William Luckabaugh, a young man employed on the farm of W. E. Sprenkle, near Nashville, this county, while driving a self binder was thrown before the knives of the machine and fatally injured.

Incendiarism in Virginia.

CAPE CHARLES, Va., July 9.—The Cape Charles Ice and Lumber company's building burned down yesterday. It was valued at $25,000, and carried only a light insurance. It is supposed that the fire was of incendiary origin.

Amateur Sailors Drowned.

BROOKLYN, July 9.—Nicholas Bitonf and Marco Rosboni, Italian laborers employed by the West End L and Improvement company, hired a sailboat at Coney Island creek yesterday afternoon and started with it for Coney Island Point. They had proceeded but a short distance when, owing to their inexperience in handling the sail, the boat was capsized. Both men were thrown into the water and drowned.

Seven Houses Destroyed by Fire.

BUTLER, N. J., July 9.—Seven houses and two barns were destroyed by fire here yesterday afternoon. The fire originated in the paint store of F. R. Penbury by the explosion of an oil stove. The flames spread with rapidity, sweeping away the entire block. Eleven families were driven out and rendered homeless. The loss is about $30,000.

Death Rather Than Blindness.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The remains of a man who committed suicide by jumping into the Potomac river from Long bridge were identified last night as those of Henry J. Porter, a brother of Robert P. Porter, ex-superintendent of the census. Despondency over the fact that he was becoming blind was probably the cause of the suicide.

Cut His Throat with His Finger Nails.

BROOKLYN, July 9.—William Devine, 22 years old, a prisoner arrested for intoxication, attempted suicide in the Greenpoint police station by cutting his throat with his finger nails. He had nearly bled to death when discovered.

La Grippe.

During the prevalence of the Grippe in past seasons it was a noticeable fact that those who depended upon Dr. King's New Discovery, not only had a speedy recovery, but escaped all of the troublesome after effects of the malady. This remedy seems to have a peculiar power in effecting rapid cures not only in cases of La Grippe, but in all Diseases of Throat, Chest and Lungs, and has cured cases of Asthma and Hay Fever of long standing. Try it and be convinced. It won't disappoint. Free Trial Bottles at McMonagle & Rogers's drug store.

MINERS LOOT A STORE

Aliens Threaten Destruction to Mine Property in Illinois.

PRINCETON, Ills., July 9.—The general merchandise store of the Whitebreast Fuel company, at Ladd, was looted Saturday night by a mob of 1,200 alien miners from Spring Valley. The stock was valued at $30,000 and will be a complete loss, such articles as could not be carried away being destroyed. The mob was composed of Lithuanians, Poles and Italians, being of the same class that caused the depredations at Spring Valley.

The strikers have become so emboldened over their success of the last few days that they made known their plans for the first time for the future. It is the sacking of the buildings of coal companies, the destruction of the machinery and the burning of the mines. This work, the miners assert, will be accomplished before tomorrow night. The companies the property of which the miners are determined to destroy are the Spring Valley Coal company, of Spring Valley; the White Brothers Fuel company, of Ladd; the Chicago, Wilmington and Vermillion Coal company, of Seatonville, and the Charles J. Devlin Coal company, of Toluca. The first three mentioned companies today served notice on the county supervisors that they would hold the county liable for all damages to their property.

Lovers Die by Poison.

RACINE, Wis., July 9.—The bodies of August Peters, aged 24 years, and Clara Christopherson, a domestic, 21 years of age, were found on the river bank at Cedar Bend yesterday by a fishing party. A bottle of wine and three different kinds of poison were found near by. The couple had been keeping company for a year. Saturday night Peters bought poison at a drug store, ostensibly to poison a dog. Then he called at the girl's home and coaxed her to go out. A boat was hired at 8:45, and the couple went down the river. It is supposed Peters poisoned the girl and then committed suicide.

Police Prevent a Church Riot.

READING, Pa., July 9.—While services were in progress yesterday in St. Mary's Polish Catholic church some eighty of the opponents of Rev. Father Januskiewitz, the pastor, tore down the gate leading to the churchyard and forced open the door of the church in their efforts to gain admission to the edifice. Father Januskiewitz escaped by jumping out of a window. The arrival of a large corps of policemen at this point prevented a riot among the rival factions of the church, which have been in continual warfare during the past three years.

The Deadly Stiletto in Boston.

BOSTON, July 9.—John McElevery, 26 years old, was murdered in cold blood on Haverbill street yesterday. It is alleged that Fillippo Piniatello, an Italian, approached him and without provocation stabbed him in the abdomen, inflicting a wound from which McElevery died four hours later. Piniatello then lost himself in the crowd, but later was arrested in Medford, as was also Fillippo Beatrice, who was his companion at the time of the stabbing.

Three Killed by a Cave In.

NANTICOKE, Pa., July 9.—A horrible accident occurred in the No. 4 slope of the Susquehanna Coal company here Saturday by which three men lost their lives, two were fatally injured and one who miraculously escaped was severely injured. The dead are Evan Adams, of Nanticoke, aged 22; George H. Hanney, aged 35; Joseph Washelwez, Polander, aged 34. The first two leave families. The men were caught under a fall of coal.

A KENTUCKY EPISODE.

A Fight to the Death Between Prominent Citizens.

FOUR KILLED AND TWO WOUNDED.

There Had Been Bad Blood Between the Two Factions for Some Time, and Though Meeting in Friendship a Trivial Quarrel Led to the Tragedy.

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., July 9.—Catlettsburg is a rendezvous for lumbermen of the entire section. They come from Pittsburg, Louisville, Cincinnati and Chicago and make their contracts with local buyers. Saturday night they were here in great numbers. Lewis Cole, a son of a millionaire lumber merchant of Cincinnati, was the leader of one party, composed of Ballard Faulkner, Charles and David Justice, Ballard Plymate and W. Blymer.

Mr. Faulkner was one of the mayor of the city and for the past year has presided over the city council. The other members of the party were all prominent and wealthy. Between the Faulkners and Justices a feud existed several years ago, and it needed very little to bring it back in all its old time animosity.

The men had a friendly walk together, but soon quarreled over a trivial matter in front of a saloon owned by John Faulkner, a brother of the councilman. John Faulkner heard the loud talking and came out to find the cause of it. It was then that all hands but the saloonist took out revolvers. John Faulkner was shot down and then a general fusillade took place. The saloonist had no firearms when he was shot down.

His brother Ballard pulled his pistol and fired at his assailant, and the two Justices dropped to the ground, one with three bullets in his head and the other with a wound in the liver, from which he died soon after.

Ballard Faulkner was shot twice, the second bullet entering just above the heart. He walked probably three feet before he dropped.

Lewis Cole and Ballard Plymate, the latter having been shot in the thigh and probably mortally wounded, were arrested as accessories to the murder. Councilman Faulkner was popular, and there is talk of lynching.

The bodies of the dead men—Ballard and John Faulkner and Charles and David Justice—are lying in their homes, crowds of people going about from one house to another and viewing the faces of their former friends.

No Jury Trials for Anarchist Fiends.

PARIS, July 9.—At a cabinet council, presided over by Premier Dupuy, there was a complete discussion of the anti-anarchist measures decided upon by the council of ministers the day after M. Carnot's murder. The government will insist upon their being adopted before the close of the session. Among the offenses covered by the measures are incitements through the press to outrage or crime, speeches advocating theft, murder, robbery, incendiarism, explosions, crimes against the state and the defense of such crimes. The publication of reports of anarchist trials is forbidden under heavy penalties. Jury trials are dispensed with in these cases.

An Orange Riot Averted.

MONTREAL, July 9.—Yesterday afternoon 200 angry men paraded from their hall on St. James street to Grace Baptist church, Cote street, Antoine. The end of the procession had hardly turned into Victoria Square before every police patrol wagon, directly with all available reserves, were dashing toward the scene of the historic Orange riot of July 12, 1877, when Orangeman Hackett was killed. A great noisy crowd filled Victoria Square, but the quick arrival of the police had a quieting effect, and, guarded by the police, the Orangemen got quietly out of the dangerous section of the city.

Evidence of a Drowning Accident.

NEW YORK, July 9.—An open catboat, from eighteen to twenty feet long, with sail up, badly torn, drifted ashore at Coney Island, inside Norton's Point, yesterday. She no doubt belongs to Dillion, of Atlantic Basin, Brooklyn. In the boat were found two pairs of young men's shoes and an empty whisky flask. Nothing is known as to whether the boat was occupied or had drifted away from her moorings. A fresh northwest wind was blowing during the night, and possibly her crew may have been lost overboard.

Russia's Intervention Not Invited.

LONDON, July 9.—A dispatch to The Standard from its correspondent in Berlin says: "I am able to state on excellent authority that China has neither requested Russia to intervene nor consented to her intervention in the Japanese-Chinese dispute. The Japanese charge d'affairs here says that China will not yield. He does not believe that Russia aims at securing a seaport in Corea, but that she will really intervene to effect a settlement of the trouble."

DEEP IN THE SEA.

Deep in a sea no plummet ever sounded
A buried city sleeps in its unfathomed grave.
The storms of time surge on and beat above it;
Stately and sad it rests beneath the restless wave.
There, when the tropic calms lie still and brooding,
The mariner may lean and see the towers below
And hear the faroff bells forever tolling

Beneath the storms and tides of this life's passion
There rests untouched a shadowy country lying fair.
O temple beautiful! I well remember
And count the blessed hours we walked together there.
Changeless in change, at peace beneath the tempests,
Gleam white and still the cloisters of that past for me.
Vainly these waves of fate chafe on unceasing—
Keep thou those sacred gates, O ever faithful sea!

—New York Ledger.

THE SMUGGLER.

On the frontier opposite Spain, like a dog couchant between two pillars, lies Querterac, guarding the entrance to a valley. On the right and left the mountains, broken for a space, resume their monotonous, unending chain. Querterac is a small old fashioned town that was once fortified. It is difficult of access and has about 6,000 inhabitants.

On the neighboring mountains, regarded as neutral, has gathered a population as doubtful in morality as in nationality—a confused mixture of Gascons, Basques and Catalonians, whose chief occupations are highway robbery and smuggling.

About the middle of the present century cholera was devastating Spain, Italy and France.

In the country and in the towns there was a cessation from the activities of life. The inhabitants barricaded themselves in vain against the invisible enemy, which glided treacherously through half opened doors, locks and unsuspected openings in roofs and walls. In Querterac, a victim from the first day, nothing could be seen but deserted streets and houses closed from top to bottom. Those who fell in the public squares had no assistance, for pity was dead through fear. The civil authorities were disobeyed and despised as useless and powerless, no regard being paid to the official notices that were placarded on the doors and walls.

If fear was great and selfishness hard in the city, the country was even more distracted and cruel. If a beggar showed himself at the door of some lonely farmhouse, he was received with stones and bullets. The dogs were set on him, and he was maltreated. Perfectly absurd stories were circulated among the country people. They said that cholera was not so bad as it was reported to be. Many people who had seemingly died of cholera had really been poisoned by some enemy, who had drugged the water or kneaded arsenic into the bread.

In short, the people in the valley were eternally in dread of some hostile action on the part of "those rascals up above," as they called the mixed race that dwelt in the caves and recesses of the mountains.

The opportunity was a good one for these mountaineers to plunder the flocks and property of those below, but "those rascals up above" never stirred from their holes. Why?

Well, they also were dying. They seemed to die in more astonishing proportions than elsewhere, and one never could have believed that there were so many people in those mountains.

At Querterac there was considerable astonishment, for after a few days the epidemic began to decrease, but the mountaineers insisted on dying. The townspeople did not understand it, but they could not help admiring the piety of those people above. Every evening three or four jolting vehicles loaded with coffins and followed by men and women in mourning descended slowly through the ravine, entered the village and passed silently toward the cemetery. The shadows of the mournful cortege in the light of the glowing fires cast dark, fantastic pictures on the walls. The passersby fled at the sight, seized with fresh alarm. It was over a lonely route that the procession passed to reach the cemetery, and those poor wretches, those heathen, followed their dead to their last resting place, when it would have been so easy to throw the bodies into the ravines and rivers or to leave them to the wolves and eagles; but no, those wanderers, those aliens, scrupulously regarded the rites of burial.

The charge of the custom house at Querterac is one of great importance and generally falls to a competent officer. From this point inspectors, going to and fro, carefully watch the narrow valley which is the only easy entrance from Spain. During the epidemic death interrupted the routine of duty, for on some days 20 men fell victims to the disease, and the survivors, distracted by the panic, neglected their work.

One man only kept his post, the old man Valgenod. He always sounded the final d. He was a born custom house officer. He belonged to that race. He could smell a smuggler three hours before he saw him, and six miles off a bale of tobacco would make him sneeze. Night and day he kept on his rounds, declaring that it would be an absurdity for an old custom man to die of the colic, as he called the cholera. The guards were increased, and Valgenod went the rounds of those who did not answer to their names at roll call. He was always watching the mountain, the lair of the monsters. He knew them every one—those smugglers on whom he had fired so often when he had found them prowling around the town on some dark night. "Ah," said Valgenod, "not one of them shaves. Yes, one perhaps. Those fellows go against my stomach."

There was one old man, Father Meritas, a gray bearded gypsy, with whom Valgenod had frequently come into contact, and each had a high opinion of the cleverness of the other.

"Valgenod!" said Meritas. "The scoundrel! If it were not for him! If he were only out of the way!"

"Meritas!" said Valgenod. "The rogue! The day after my death he will smuggle Madrid into France."

Meritas was a smuggler, as Valgenod was a custom house officer, from temperament and instinct. It was his vocation. Numerous were the tricks that he invented, the schemes that he devised, and he was never caught. In the caves of the mountains were hidden bales of tobacco, cloths, skins, Spanish laces and liquors. In some way or another all this merchandise was gradually smuggled into France, but how, no one, not even Valgenod, knew.

It was the third day of the epidemic, just about twilight, that Valgenod, scenting the winds and looking around, saw a cart, drawn by a broken winded mule, entering the valley and going straight toward the gates of the town. Behind came Meritas and a few ill clad fellows of his tribe, who were singing psalms in a harsh patois. The cart was a railed one, and in spite of the approaching darkness the sergeant made out the long shape of a coffin.

"Ah," he moaned. "There is suffering up there too. Honest people are not the only ones to die, I see."

He drew himself up to let the procession pass and gave the military salute—a corpse deserved such salute even though it was one of those reprobates. Before the walls of the custom house, Meritas, whose eyes gleamed like two fires in his pale face, raised his long, lean arms to heaven and sobbed:

"My wife! My wife! My wife!"

"Poor old man," said Valgenod, and he drew a match to light his pipe, for he felt an unusual tenderness creeping over him.

Two days later another procession was seen winding around the mountain, and Meritas was walking behind. This time there were three coffins in the cart.

"Well, now," thought Valgenod, "these cannot all be his. Perhaps it is a subscription."

"My sons! My sons! Who can give me back my sons?"

The sergeant saluted three times, and the entire post, drawn out in line along the open gratings, uncovered piously before the bitter grief of the distracted father.

Every evening at the setting of the sun a funeral procession passed through the town, and Meritas invariably formed part of the cortege. He walked with a friend on each side supporting him, calling aloud on God, blessing the dead and lamenting his fate. He buried in order his wife, his sons, his daughters, his nephews, his cousins. One day he besought Valgenod to kill him and end his suffering.

"He is getting silly, and there is some reason for it," said the sergeant, shrugging his shoulders.

Finally, so strong is pity, he felt his former respect grow into love for his old enemy.

These funerals continued for three weeks. Then the people in the town began to wonder. Querterac awoke from its stupor, and the epidemic seemed to have disappeared. The deaths became fewer and fewer; the windows were opened; every one would have regained confidence if it had not been for those mournful processions that came down every evening from above, a lamentable proof that the epidemic was still raging, if not in the city, at any rate in the outposts.

One evening—it was the last—three carts, as usual, were crossing the city bridge. One of them, the foremost, struck against a milestone. The mule backed, and the cart upset, throwing its contents, two coffins, at the feet of Valgenod. In the fall the lid of one of the coffins fell off. Immediately Meritas and all the mourners, spreading out their arms like the wings of birds, fled to the mountains. Valgenod was astonished to see instead of the corpse, before which he was already preparing to flee, rolling between his legs four bales of merchandise carefully marked.

"To arms," he cried.

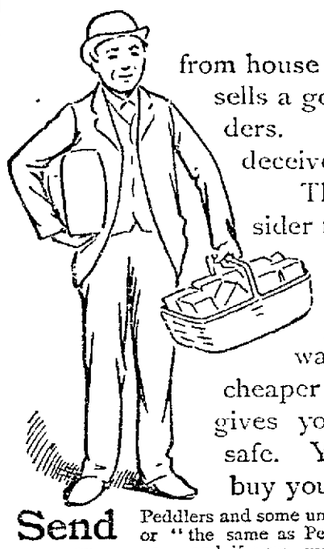
The post ran up, but it was too late. The smugglers had escaped. The other carts were seized and the coffins opened. They were all filled with merchandise. Valgenod tore his hair.

This then was the key to the mystery, the explanation of those numerous deaths, of those pious burials. Not one of those "rascals up above" had died from cholera. Meritas had not lost a wife or sons, daghters or cousins. All the coffins that had entered Querterac and had been saluted by the custom house officers had been loaded with lace, liquors and tobacco. They had been taken through the deserted streets, and the contents stored in a house at the gates of the cemetery. When the house was searched, it was empty. The merchandise had been sent away every day to the large towns.

The villagers smiled. Valgenod swore that in future he would refuse to pass a skeleton unless he turned his pockets inside out. Meritas disappeared. —Translated From the French of Maurice Montigut For Short Stories.

Feeding By Clockwork.

We do so many things automatically in our days that nobody will be surprised to hear that an ingenious mechanician has invented a machine to feed horses by clockwork. It is so arranged that one or 100 horses may be fed at any hour of the day or night without the aid of any person. The horse's morning feed is placed in the manger at night, and the boxes are opened by clockwork at any hour desired. The clock is so arranged that when the weight has run down to a certain point it releases a heavy beam, which, dropping, its momentum, by means of a cord or bell wire, pulls a pin which releases the manger, and this, by its own weight and that of its contents, turns over with the open side in front, so that the food is within convenient reach of the horse. —London Globe.



Peddling

from house to house, with "prizes" thrown in, sells a good many pretty poor washing-powders. Don't let these worthless prizes deceive you.

They don't amount to anything. Consider their value if you bought them in the regular way, and compare this with the value of ruined linens, paints, etc., that you risk with these washing-powders. There's nothing cheaper to wash with than Pearline. That gives you easy washing that is absolutely safe. You would better use Pearline, and buy your own prizes. You'd save money.

Send it Back

Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 420 JAMES PYLE, New York

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

MY Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did, to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess,

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy ank secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

UNIVERSALIST SERVICES.

Much Interest Manifested in Them—Appointments for Future Meetings.

A decided interest is being manifested in the Universalist services which are held from time to time in our city. It has been found that quite a number of members of the Universalist Church are living in Middletown and not a few to whom the faith of the church has been unfamiliar are regularly attending the ervices.

Yesterday, at 3 p. m., Rev. V. E. Tomlinson, of Hudson, was the preacher, his text being Mark ix:48. "Where their worm dieth not and the fire is not quenched."

The following are the other speakers and dates for the summer:

July 22nd, Prof. L. F. Gardner, Poughkeepsie; August 12th, Rev. Lyman Ward, South Hartford; August 26th. Rev. J. D. Corby, Troy.

THE SUMMER BOARDING BUSINESS

It Is a Failure This Year—Merchants, Boarding House Keepers and the Railroads the Losers — Probable Causes.

From some cause or other, probably real or imaginary hard times, the summer boarding business is a failure this year. Usually before this time the boarding houses in this and Sullivan county are filled with city people and the railroad companies are taxed to their uttermost to provided accommodations for passengers, but this year the rooms provide for city folks in boarding and farm houses are empty and so are the pocketbooks of their owners.

Middletown merchants, who heretofore have had a large trade from the boarders in this vicinity and in Sullivan county, and from proprietors of boarding houses as well, find a material difference in their receipts and when the railroad companies come to make up their reports for the next quarter they will also realize that summer travel has been lighter than in many years.

In Pine Bush, where usually there are hundreds of summer boarders, there are less than ten this year, and the extra coach sent up to carry city people runs empty every day.

All along the lines of the Erie, O. and W. and on the Ellenville branch the conditions are about the same.

It is probable that many New Yorkers will remain at home this summer to make up for their expenditures at the World's Fair, last year, and many others who could as well afford to go to the country now as heretofore belong to that class who, when the cry of hard times is heard, tighten their grip upon their pocketbooks, not because times are hard with them but because they fear matters may become worse. The poorer people,—those who are really affected by the hard times, are not of the class that usually spend their summers in the country.

JUNE WEATHER.

Observation Taken by Prof. John M. Dolph, U. S. Signal Station at Port Jervis.

From the Port Jervis Gazette.

The highest point reached by the thermometer during the month of June was 92 degrees, on Saturday, the 23rd.

The highest for June 1893 was 93 degrees on the 20th.

The average of highest daily temperature was 79.6, against 78.5 for June '93.

The average of lowest daily temperature was 57.6, against 57.8 for June '93.

The average temperature for the month was 68.8degrees, which was six-tenths of one degree higher than June '93.

THE WEEK IN CONGRESS

The House Waiting for a Conference Report on the Tariff.

THE DEMOCRATIC CONFEREES MEET

Endeavoring to Evolve a Scheme That Will Reconcile the Differences Between the Four Democratic Senators and the Four Democratic Representatives.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The house of representatives will be resting during the present week, ready at all times to lay aside its regular business and take up a conference report on the tariff or any appropriation bill. Tonight the rules committee will meet to arrange an order of business, but whatever they agree to take up will be conditioned on giving way to the tariff or appropriations whenever a conference report is presented. District of Columbia legislation occupies the house today. For the rest of the week the rules committee will probably give several days for the bill to elect United States senators by direct vote of the people, and also several days for numerous bills of a legal and judical character reported by the judiciary committee.

The bill was sent to conference by the house Saturday, after it had non-concurred in all the senate amendments. The house conferees are Messrs. Wilson (W. Va.), McMillin (Tenn.), Turner (Ga.) and Montgomery (Ky.), Democrats, and Messrs Reed (Me.), Burrows (Mich.) and Payne (N. Y.), Republicans. Chairman Wilson left for West Virginia after his appointment as a conferee

The first effort to reconcile the differences between the senate and house on the tariff bill will be made today The Democratic conferees met at noon in the senate finance committee room The Republican conferees were not asked to be present. It is not as a committee, therefore, that the meeting is held, and it is understood to be the purpose of holding no meetings of the full committee until the four Democratic senators and four Democratic representatives have reconciled all their differences. The Democratic members of the committee say they can expedite their work better among themselves than they could if constantly exposed to the harassment of the minority conferees.

With this program in view there may be no meeting of the committee as a whole for a week or ten days. In the meantime the Democrats will proceed with the work, and when agreements have been reached in whole or in part the Republicans will be called in, and the committee as a whole will act on what the Democratic members of it have previously agreed. This is similar to the plan followed by the ways and means Democrats in originally framing the bill, and by the Democratic members of the finance committee when it was before that committee

The committee on appropriations will have the right of way in the senate during the week, and an effort will be made to dispose of a number of bills which have been held up awaiting the disposition of the tariff. There is a possibility that some day early in the week may be alloted to the committee on foreign relations, as Senator Morgan is very anxious to have the Chinese treaty disposed of. He thinks that one day will be sufficient.

Senator Cockrell, chairman of the committee on appropriations, says that the pension bill probably will be first taken up. Later in the week the smaller appropriation bills, for fortifications, military academy, postoffice and other bills that will not consume much time will no doubt be disposed of It is expected that during the week bills of local importance which may be passed without much delay will be considered in the two hours set apart for morning business.

The resolution introduced last week by Senator Kyle to prevent federal interference in railroad strikes is still upon the table and may be called up at any time.

The American Cyclist Wins.

PARIS, July 9.—A. A. Zimmerman, the American bicyclist, made his first appearance at the Buffalo Valodrome yesterday. He was matched for $500 a side against Edwards, the English rider. In the first race, distance one kilometer, Edwards went to the front, but was closely followed by Zimmerman. On the third lap Zimmerman let himself out, and won by several lengths The final lap, one third of a kilometre, was covered in 29 2-5 seconds, beating the record In the second race, distance two kilometres, Zimmerman won by a good length, thus securing the stakes

Britannia Again a Winner.

LONDON, July 9.—The American yacht Vigilant was again defeated by the Britannia on Saturday in the race for the queen's cup. There never was a finer race sailed, and the Prince of Wales' yacht won on the time allowance of three minutes, as the Vigilant crossed the finish line first. The Vigilant's time was 4 h. 18 min. 14 sec., while the time of the Britannia was 4 h 19 min 19 sec. The Vigilant and Britannia are today racing for £100 over the same course as that sailed yesterday

Fell from a Window to Death.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 9.—Superintendent J. Glasscock Mays, of the Southern Express company, with headquarters in Atlanta, died from the effects of a fall from a third story window of the Tybee hotel Mr Mays was sitting in the window looking backward into the chamber. The sill was very close to the floor, and in rising he lost his balance and fell out.

Run Down by a Trolley Car.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 9.—Benjamin Mahr, a storekeeper here, and Frank Becker were driving down Market street when they were run down by an electric car. The wagon was splintered to fragments, and the men were dragged along the track for about thirty yards. Mahr lies in a precarious condition.

Valuable Machinery Destroyed by Fire.

BURLINGTON, N. J., July 9.—The main mill of the R. D Wood & Co. iron plant, at Florence, was destroyed by fire Saturday night. The flames originated from a gas operator used in drying moulds. Loss, $10,000, chiefly on valuable machinery.

COURTING BY WIRE.

The Man Gushed Over the Ticker, but Was Disenchanted on Sight.

A telegraph operator in a Boston office once met with bitter disappointment early in his career by falling in love with a young woman at the other end of one of the old Western Union wires. She used to say sweet little nothings when a lull in the business gave her an opportunity to use the wire. The young man worked in the Boston office and had the reputation of being a "fly" sender and able to receive what he could send, an all important factor in the "sizing up" of an operator. The woman was proud to have him say even "Gm" or "Ge" (good morning or good evening) to her, and the other girls on the wire, with whom he never condescended to exchange even these ordinary salutations, were jealous. As time wore on their conversations over the wire became longer and more frequent. Finally an invitation to come to Boston and visit one of the theaters was given and accepted. The Lothario of the wire was to wear a red, red rose in his buttonhole, a white straw hat, with a blue band; she was to carry a small satchel of peculiar shape in one hand and a fluffy lace handkerchief in the other.

The train arrived at the eastern station on time, and the satchel of peculiar design was sighted. It was indeed a peculiar design. It was an old fashioned carpetbag of a grayish green color and considerably older than the Morse alphabet. The girl was a sight that would have made Neil Burgess in the "County Fair" go and hide. She was fully 48 years old. Long corkscrew curls of a past era hung down over her shoulders like twists of molasses candy, and a smile loomed up under the eaves of her sunbonnet that would have done credit to a fissure in the side of Vesuvius.

She was extremely glad to see him, and he, with the instinct of a true gentleman, tried to appear that he was just as glad to see her. He took her carpetbag, and they boarded a car for the house where he was staying. There were sly nudges and covert laughs at the tea table, all the girls and young men thinking the young operator was entertaining his aunt from the country. For the evening performance at the theater the giddy maiden fished out an awful bonnet from the depths of her carpetbag and slicked up her curls in the most approved fashion. The bonnet was a flower garden in itself, and the writer has the young man's own word for it that she and the bonnet attracted more attention than the play.

The next day he sent her home, but ever after he was careful not to allow himself to converse with any one on the wire except on business.—Donahoe's Magazine.

Antiquity of the Alphabet.

According to Philippe Berger's book entitled "Histoire de l'Ecritus dans l'Antiquite." the alphabet was invented about 1500 B. C., that invented by the Phœnicians being without doubt the oldest of all the forms of expressing thought or sounds by character. Originally it and all other alphabets were simply a series of hieroglyphics or picture characters, the idea of an elephant or an ox being expressed by rude sketches of such animals, abbreviations being in the form of a pair of tusks, horns, etc. Professor Auer (see Vienna edition of his "Sprachalie," 1849) says that, taking both the ancient and modern alphabets into account, as many as 400 different sets of characters, hieroglyphics and letters may be enumerated, that these are all outgrowths of the Phœnician mode of mutely expressing thought or sound, and that if we should set aside slight variations of form the grand total of 400 alphabets would dwindle immediately to less than 50.

The best oriental scholars have given it as their opinion that the original Phœnician alphabet was composed of but 16 characters, yet it is known that it contained at least 21 and probably 22 at the time when it was adopted by the Greeks. Why or by whom these extra characters were invented, or why such an addition was necessary, has never been explained. —St. Louis Republic.

AN ANGEL UNAWARES.

A Pathetic Little Tale of Three Women and Two Babies.

It was on a Sixth avenue surface car, and when she got on at Twenty-eighth street there were but five passengers—two women, each with a baby, and the spectator.

One of the women sat in the far corner, while the other sat on the opposite side.

The spectator is not, as a rule, "given" to babies, but that baby was one of that irresistible sort that laughs and makes fun of you, gurgling out all sorts of disjointed criticisms of your personal appearance and general makeup that would be simply unbearable could you but understand it.

How such a delightful baby could ever have selected such a mother was inexplicable.

As you looked at her hard and unwomanly face—which not even her baby's smile could soften—you involuntarily pitied the child that some day must turn to her for sympathy and help.

These observations were just completed when the car stopped, and she stepped on.

She was plainly dressed in a gown of dark brown, made of some rich corded material, edged with fur. Her coloring was of that warm, rich tint that one finds in the women of the south, with golden brown hair and eyes. Altogether she was most good to look at.

But about her was that intangible, illusive something, that indescribable air—in spite, or perhaps because, of her otherwise modest demeanor—that proclaimed her the woman of pleasure.

She seated herself across the car, and immediately that baby, attracted by something—who can say what?—some latent goodness in that face perhaps, which her innocent wisdom, untainted as yet by the wisdom of this world, recognized—prepared to make a conquest of the newcomer.

She moved her little plump hand and cooed and laughed. Who could resist her?

Her face became suffused; her eyes gleamed with happiness. She was no longer merely a pretty coquette. She was a beautiful, womanly woman.

Leaning forward, she kissed the little hand tremulously.

Finally, yielding to an irresistible impulse, she crossed over and sat beside the mother, who might have been a carven image for any sign of life she gave.

"Would—would you let me hold that dear baby just a minute?"

For the first time that wooden face became expressive. Those light blue eyes actually glinted and sparkled.

In a thin voice that gave vent to all the malice of a narrow nature, she jeered:

"You! Why, I wouldn't let you touch her!"

The poor face changed.

The beautiful, happy flush deepened to a cruel red. From an expression of angelic tenderness it took on one that was in itself an imprecation.

For the baby's pure sake she smothered it at the door of her lips.

At that moment the car stopped, and she hurried to the door.

She was not so quick, however, but that the other mother caught her hand, her plain, kind, motherly face all alight with a divine impulse of generosity.

"I get off here," she said. "Won't you carry my baby a little way? My arms are very tired."

As they stepped together from the platform of the car the spectator, overcome with reverence for the beautiful charity of that act, felt that he dimly understood what it was to "entertain an angel unawares!"—New York Recorder.

The Linen Duster.

"It is a long time," said a traveling man, "since I have seen a linen duster of the old fashioned kind, which wrinkled and creased whenever you sat down in it, especially if the weather was a little damp, and which looked after you had been 100 miles or so in it as though you had worn it around the world 17 times, all the way by rail, and had sat up in it all the time, but alpaca dusters are still worn."—New York Sun.

The Scenery Shifted.

The members of a theatrical company, traveling through Lake George on their way to Canada, were commenting upon the grandeur of the scenery when the train came to a standstill. One of the men, becoming impatient, ventured out, and upon his return was asked the cause of the delay. "Well," he replied, "a piece of the scenery has fallen across the track."—Life.

Cremation has become an accepted institution in Boston. The Massachusetts Cremation Society has had its crematory in operation for five months and in that time forty bodies have been cremated, the number increasing each month. The average time required for the complete reduction of a body to ashes is one and a half hours.

The result of the school election in Meriden, Conn., where the A. P. A. forced a religious issue, seems to indicate that an appeal to some strong sentiment like religious sympathy or prejudice is necessary before women value the right of suffrage. At the Meriden election, 380 women voted, more than in any other town in Connecticut, and over half the number of qualified women voters in the town. Most of the women who voted were Roman Catholics and to their votes, it is generally believed, the defeat of the A. P. A. ticket was due.

Speaker Crisp has named as the members of the House committee to confer upon the Tariff bill Messrs. Wilson, McMillin, Turner, Montgomery, Reed, Burrows and Payne. The Vice President has named as the members of the Senate Committee Senators Voorhees, Harris, Vest, Jones, of Arkansas, Sherman, Allison and Aldrich. The four first named members of each committee are Democrats, and on them rests the responsibility of finally determining the form of the measure, for the work of the Republican members of the committee must of necessity be purely formal. In accordance with usage, the members of the conference committee were selected from the House Committee on Ways and Means and the Senate Finance Committee. The Democratic members of the conference committee are all strong men, and a majority of them are sincere tariff reformers. The tariff bill is in good hands and the country may safely expect that as a result of the conference the measure finally agreed upon will be the very best measure that can possibly be passed.

Our dispatches indicate that there has been a decided improvement in the strike situation in Chicago, today. The President's proclamation has had a good effect and the lawless elements among the strikers seem to realize that further violence on their part will be met by the full military power of the United States. The blood shed at Hammond, Ind., yesterday, has also had the effect of making the riotous element more cautious and has increased popular respect for the military, whose long suffering patience and unwillingness to resort to extreme measures were making the rioters believe that they feared to shoot. The one alarming feature of the situation is the decision of all the labor organizations of Chicago to strike out of sympathy if the railroad strike is not settled by 4 o'clock, to-morrow afternoon. Should such a strike take place, it will mean the addition of many thousand men to the idlers in Chicago and will greatly increase the danger of the strike spreading to other cities, and may result in arraying a large part of the organized labor of the country on the side of the strikers.

BITTEN BY A ST. BERNARD

A Little Daughter of Augustus Crawford Badly Bitten by the Family Dog.

A little daughter of Mr. Augustus Crawford, who resides just north of this city, was severely bitten by a large St. Bernard dog, owned by the family, on Saturday.

As the child tells the story, she stooped to pick up something when the dog pounced upon her, biting her on the head. It is thought she may have have attempted to pick up a bone which the dog was gnawing.

The dog's teeth penetrated to the child's skull, but it is not believed the injury is a serious one. The dog was promptly killed by Mr. Crawford.

Chicago Labor Unions Vote to Strike To-Morrow.

NO VIOLENCE TO-DAY.

All Quiet at Chicago and Hammond—Passenger Trains Running on Time—United States Troops Withdrawn from Hammond—Mare Island Naval Force to Protect San Francisco—News from Other Points.

CHICAGO, July 9.—Representatives of all the labor unions of Chicago, after an all night meeting decided, this morning, that unless the strike is settled by 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, all the labor unions will strike. This failing, the strike will extend to all the cities in the United States.

Resolutions were adopted appointing a committee to wait on the Common Council and request that it demand of President Cleveland the withdrawal of the regulars; insisting that the Governor take legal steps to compel said withdrawal; expressing sympathy for the A. R. U., and declaring the presence of President Gompers, of the Federation of Labor, in this city is imperative.

The motion to strike was carried unanimously and amid the wildest enthusiasm. Cleveland and the railroads were roundly denounced, and radical speeches were made. Should the labor unions strike business will be completely paralyzed.

SWIFT'S DRIVERS FIRED ON.

Early this morning, a number of drivers of Swift & Co., while driving wagon loads of beef from the packing house, were fired on by strikers. The police finally dispersed the strikers and arrested several. One of the strikers and one of the drivers were wounded.

NO TROUBLE IN CHICAGO OR HAMMOND.

Up to noon, to-day, no outbreak on the part of strikers had occurred here or at Hammond. Quiet reigned at both places. Passenger trains at Chicago are moving on time.

UNITED STATES TROOPS WITHDRAWN FROM HAMMOND.

HAMMOND, July 9.—Seven hundred militia arrived, this morning, and the United States troops have been ordered to return to Chicago, to-day. Workingmen remained in their homes during the night, and the soldiers had a quiet night. There has been no violence or gathering of citizens so far to-day.

CARS BURNED AT DANVILLE, ILL.

DANVILLE, Ill., July 9.—Twenty box cars in the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad yards were burned by strikers. The citizens hindered firemen in their efforts.

NOT DEBS'S SUBJECTS.

MASSILLON, Ohio, July 9.—The A. R. U. on the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad refuse to obey Debs's orders to strike.

A LOCOMOTIVE DYNAMITED.

PUEBLO, July 9.—A locomotive attached to a Santa Fe freight train was blown up near here, last night, by dynamite which had been secreted in the coal. The engineer and fireman escaped with injuries.

WABASH ENGINEERS AND FIREMEN OUT.

PERU, Ind., July 9.—The situation on the Wabash Road is apparently worse. All the engineers and firemen are now out.

NEGROES IN THE SWITCH TOWERS.

CHICAGO, July 9—The Rock Island Company, to-day, put negroes in the towers to operate the switches. The strikers are furious and tried to get at the negroes and burn the towers, but were driven off by troops. The negroes are willing to take the places as they were refused admission to the A. R. U.

THE SITUATION IN NEW YORK.

No Signs of Trouble on Any Road—Labor Organizations Will Go Out If Asked.

By United Press.

NEW YORK, July 8.—The railroad officials report that there are as yet no indications of a strike here. The mails on the New York Central and Pennsylvania lines are arriving on time, to-day. Secretary Bohn, of the New York Federation of Labor, says that all of the labor organizations in this city will go out if asked.

BRITANNIA AGAIN A WINNER.

Favored by a Light and Puffy Wind She Sails Away from the Vigilant.

By United Press.

GLASGOW, July 9.—The Britannia defeated the Vigilant in a race, today, over the Clyde course, for a purse of £75. The Vigilant got the better of the start, and was the weather boat when the line was crossed. She led at the first mark by one minute, but before the course was half sailed, the wind, which was light and puffy, failed her entirely, while the Britannia seemed to be favored by the wind and drew away from the Yankee yacht, beating her home by several minutes.

And he was wondrous wise,
He jumped into a shoddy store
To purchase shirts and ties.
But when the goods upon the shelf
This purchaser beheld.
He jumped out from the shoddy store
To that of Lipfeld.

This man's experience is by no means a new one, for many a one has been led astray by glowing advertisements of goods at less than cost. Our goods are reliable, well made and faithfully represented, so you can rely on what is told you concerning them.

IS MRS. HALLIDAY INSANE.

Gov. Flower Appoints a Commission to Inquire Into Her Mental Condition.

By United Press.

ALBANY, July 9.—Gov. Flower, on application of George H. Carpenter, of Liberty, who appeared for Mrs. Halliday at her trial, has appointed Dr. Blumer, superintendent of the Utica State Hospital, and Drs. Lee, of Rochester, and Spencer, of Watertown, as a committee to inquire into the sanity of Mrs. Halliday, now awaiting execution at Dannemora State prison.

LIZZIE HALLIDAY'S CRIMES.

Dr. Pillsbury Thinks Them Merely the Expression of Inborn Ferocity.

It has been a favorite argument with those who are inclined to the theory of Lizzie Halliday's irresponsibility, that her thirst for blood could be dictated by insane impulses only, that she had no adequate motive for her crimes. To this, Dr. Pillsbury, who was engaged as an expert witness for the State, but could not be present, replies as follows::

"Did you ever see a party go fishing? The fish have not harmed them. They don't want the fish; all they can possibly get they can buy for a fractional part of the cost of getting them. A hunter travels an immense distance and undergoes physical toil and serious danger for a rabbit, wolf or something else he don't want. All this is the expression of inborn ferocity, merely an innate disposition to murder for the sake of murder. It is not enough to say that when people go fishing they go for the outing, for the outing can be had without the fishing."

THE OPENING OF THE NEW STREET

The Commission in Session, To-day—Evidence Taken and Argument of Counsel.

Messrs. A. S. Cassedy, J. M. Dickey and Chas. Caldwell, the Commissioners in the matter of the opening of the new street, from East Main street to Sprague avenue, held another session at the Corporation Rooms, to-day.

In the forenoon, Messrs. A. V. Boak, A. Coddington and S. Albert Bull were called to testify as to the value of the lands to be opened up, and the increase of value of lots by reason of the proposed improvement.

This afternoon Hon. Luther R. Marsh addressed the Commission as the representative of Mrs. Huyler. He thought the whole city would be benefit ed and it was too bad the assessment could not be extended to the whole city. He thought it unjust to tax the whole cost upon the adjacent property.

Wm. Vanamee, Esq., as the attorney for the Babcock property, spoke in favor of extending the area of assessment as far as possible. He said the Stansbury property had a better frontage now than if the new street is opened. As to the Babcock property, the owners could open a street fromSprague avenue without a dollar of expense. The proposed new street would not be a desirable one, but merely a cut off. His clients were willing to give up the land needed if the taxes for benefits were made the same amount. As a reason for putting a large share of the cost upon the city at large, he suggested that several thousand dollars be assessed on the Benton avenue school house, although he admitted the possibility of the assessment being overruled if the taxpayers carried the matter to the courts.

H. W. Wiggins, Esq., as the representative of Mrs. E. B. Hanford, also wanted the area of assessment made as wide as possible, but said the Commission would be able to determine the area themselves.

As to the assessment on the school house, he read a section of the charter which exempts school property from taxation for any purpose, whatever.

When all parties desiring to be heard had addressed the Commission that body adjourned, and will now consider the evidence taken. It will probably be some time before the awards and assessments will be announced.

Brought a Goshen Jag to Town.

A Newark man attended the Goshen races, Saturday afternoon, and afterwards came to this city on train 29. He had dallied so long with Goshen jig-water that it was necessary for the trainmen to assist him in alighting from the train, and a stretcher was required to carry him to the lockup. He paid $5 yesterday for his night's lodging.

A Car of Beef Arrives.

Middletowners, who have been living on cow beef of a very poor quality for several days past, will be pleased to know that a car of beef from Kansas City arrived in town, last night.

LOCATED THE BOOTY.

A Queer Story from Port Jervis—A Middletown Clairvoyant Whose "Cards Were Not Blurred."

A queer story comes from Port Jervis to the effect that the residence of a Mrs. Lockwood, of that village, was entered and robbed of a watch and other articles on the Fourth and that after consulting a Port Jervis clairvoyant and getting no satisfaction, "because the cards were always blurred, she came to this city on Friday and sought the aid of one of our fortune tellers.

The Middletown seeress manipulated the cards and after looking them over said to Mrs. Lockwood:

"You come back to Middletown, to-morrow, and I'll tell you all about it."

Saturday morning, Mrs. Lockwood returned and the fortune teller was ready for her. She told her to go home and arrange with two police officers to meet the Wells-Fargo Express and they would see two men board the train and if they would arrest and search them they would find the stolen property in the boot legs of one of the men.

There would be nothing strange about this part of the story, if our Port Jervis informant had not assured us that the woman did as directed; the two men appeared, were arrested and the stolen property found just where the fortune teller said it would be.

If this story is true, then Port Jervis clairvoyants are not in it with Middletown fortune tellers.

THIS MORNING'S FIRE.

The House, No. 12 William Street, Badly Damaged by Fire and Water.

The fire alarm was sounded from box 57, at 9:45 o'clock this morning. The fire was in the double dwelling house, No. 12 William street, owned by Mr. George Smith and occupied by Mrs. Ed. Doremus and Mrs. Radiker.

None of the parties were at home at the time, and the fire, which evidently started in the kitchen in the rear part of the house, had gained considerable headway before the firemen arrived.

The building was badly damaged by fire and water, the loss, however, being covered by insurance in the agencies of Case & Taylor and E. E. Conkling.

The origin of the fire is a mystery, but is supposed to have been caused by a defective flue.

OBITUARY.

Sanford Headly Stubbs.

Mr. Sanford H. Stubbs, a well known resident of the town of Wallkill, died at his home near Howells Depot at noon, yesterday, in his 87th year. He was born on the farm now occupied by Charles Evans, and for the past 60 years has lived on the adjoining farm, where he died. He was married 66 years ago to Keziah B. Wheat, who died in August, 1888. He was the last of a family of five children. He is survived by three children, George, of Summitville; Julia, wife of Andrew T. Bertholf, of Wallkill; and Fannie, widow of Calvin Axford, who resided with him.

Mr. Stubbs was Commissioner of Highways of the town of Wallkill for several years and was also elected constable for one term.

The funeral will take place at his late residence at 12:30, on Wednesday.

HORSE THIEVES AT WORK.

Capt. Grier Asked to Look Out for Horses Stolen from Tuxedo, Washingtonville and Catskill.

It is thought that a well organized band of horse thieves is operating in this section of the State. Capt. Grier has received telegrams from Catskill, Washingtonville and Tuxedo, during the last two days, asking him to look out for horses which had been stolen.

Geo. Bush, Captain of the Tuxedo Police, telegraphs for a bay horse with black mane and tail, fifteen hands high, weight 1,100 pounds, age ten years. Attached to black buggy, nearly new. Stolen Saturday night.

The Washingtonville horse is described as a bay, 1,250 pounds, snip nose, bar shoes in front. Attached to red gear wagon. Wagon contained typewriter and lot of shears.

Sheriff F. S. Decker, of Catskill, Greene county, offers $25 reward for a light iron gray horse, eight years old, 1,200 to 1,250 pounds, heavy mane and tail. Scar on right fore leg between ankle and hoof.

Injured by Falling Through a Window.

Saturday afternoon, while the little daughter of Mr. James Scott, superintendent of the Campbell stock farm, was playing in the house, she fell against a window, breaking the glass and cutting four gashes in her leg, which penetrated to the bone. The wounds are very painful, but Dr. Smiley, who was called to attend her, does not anticipate any serious results.

INCIDENTS AND HAPPENINGS IN COSHEN.

On His Vacation—Death's Harvest—Personal Notes.

From our regular correspondent.

—Mrs. Hiram Horton, of Tuxedo, is spending some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edwards.

—Dr. E. G. Parker started, to-day, on his annual vacation. He expects to be absent about two weeks. His dental parlors will be closed in the meantime.

—George ("Nubbins") Brown died, last Saturday night, of consumption, aged about forty-eight years. A large family of children survive him.

—Daniel Van Keuren, father of D. M. Van Keuren, of this village, died, Saturday, in his seventy-fourth year, at his son's residence. The funeral services were conducted by the members of Orange Lodge, this afternoon. The interment will be at Grahamsville, Sullivan county, Tuesday afternoon. Deceased was a member of Grahamsville Lodge, I. O. O. F.

—Misses Hattie and Hannah Doblin, of Newburgh, are the guests of Miss Bertha Samuels.

THE GOSHEN RACES.

A Small Crowd Present Saturday—Wickham's Polonius Colt and Lizzie Holden the Winners.

The races at Goshen, Saturday afternoon, attracted a very small crowd as compared with the attendance on the Fourth. Pools were sold on both events, but there were few spectators present.

The match race for a purse of $300 between R. J. Wickham's Polonius colt and L. J. Loomis's May Decker, by Chesroes, was won by the former in three straight heats, time 2:46¼, 2:44¼ and 2:53 William Wood, of Chester, drove the colt, and George Sharts, of Goshen, handled the mare.

The 2:40 class race had five starters, and was won handily in three heats by Lizzie Holden, a handsome bay mare owned by Mr. Henry Holden, of Goshen. Pilot Knob second, Flora J. third, Bad Penny fourth. William Wood's Laertes was distanced in the first heat. The time was the same in all three heats, 2:34¼.

THE ASYLUMS AT ORANGE.

A Very Easy Victory Over the Orange Team.

The Asylums had an easy time at Orange, Saturday afternoon, defeating the crack amateur team with ease. The boys speak highly of the manner in which they were received and entertained by the Orange Athletic Club.

The New York Sun excuses the defeat by saying that the Orange team was minus the services of four of its strongest players, and also says that the Asylums play Sunday games at Paterson. The summary:

The Mary Powell Disabled.

On the down trip of the Mary Powell, Saturday, a crack was discovered in the journal of the starboard shaft. The boat was put into the dock at Hoboken for repairs, which will require a week at least. The Powell has been practically rebuilt twice, but the broken journal was one that was put in the boat when she was originally built.

Who Owns This Balloon?

A large balloon, made of cloth and very similar to the one in which Prof. Wolcott and wife made their ascension from Harlem Park, alighted on the Knight farm, near Highland Lake, Saturday evening. It was still smoking when it fell, but where it came from or to whom it belongs we have not learned.

The Patrol Wagon in the Repair Shop.

Eagles' patrol wagon was taken to Terwilliger's shop for repairs, this morning. Driver Carl Johnson was returning to the truck house with the team when the fire alarm sounded. The old delivery wagon of the Middletown Beef Co. will be used until the patrol wagon is repaired.

SLIGHT MISHAPS ON THE TROLLEY

A Fuse Burned Out—The Trolley Wire Jerked Loose at Genung Street.

A fuse on one of the electric cars burned out while coming up the East Main street hill, last night, and the car could proceed no further until taken in tow by another car. A closed car is running in its place, to-day.

The trolley of car 5 slipped from the wire just after the car started from Genung street, about 9 o'clock Saturday night, and the trolley pole striking on one of the wires supporting the trolley wire, jerking the latter loose from its supports at Genung street. No other damage was done.

A STRANGE CASE.

How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with intense interest: "I cannot describe the numb, creepy sensation that existed in my arms, hands and legs. I had to rub and beat those parts until they were sore, to overcome in a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist, together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was creeping paralysis, from which, according to their universal conclusion, there is no relief. Once it fastens upon a person, they say, it continues its insidious progress until it reaches a vital point and the sufferer dies. Such was my prospect. I had been doctoring a year and a half steadily, but with no particular benefit, when I saw an advertisement of Dr Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and began using it. Marvelous as it may seem, but a few days had passed before every bit of that creepy feeling had left me, and there has not been even the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 170 to 137. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recommendation, and it has been as satisfactory in their cases as in mine."—James Kane, La Rue, O.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

AN EXPERT CROSS EXAMINER.

Lawyer Goff Has Distinguished Himself In New York's Police Investigation.

John W. Goff, the New York lawyer who has distinguished himself as the counsel for Senator Lexow's committee that is investigating the New York police, is about 46 years old. He is a native of Ireland, came to America when a boy, settled in New York and got a position in a dry goods store. His efficiency was so great there as to attract the attention of A. T. Stewart, then the dry goods king of New York. While in Stewart's employ Mr. Goff proved to be so useful that he was promoted to the superintendency of one of the most important departments of the great store.

JOHN W. GOFF.

At the same time that he was working for the merchant prince he was also devoting his evenings to study, being a student at the Cooper Union School of Science and Art. When he had finished the course there, he studied law in the office of Samuel G. Courtney, ex-United States district attorney, and was duly admitted to the bar. In 1888 he was made assistant district attorney of New York county, in which position he developed unusual and unexpected ability as a prosecutor and a cross examiner. Two years later, upon his leaving the office, he was nominated for district attorney on the ticket of the People's Municipal league, a reform organization. He was not elected, but the prominence his candidacy gave to him had something to do with building up the large practice he now enjoys, and his defeat did not cause him to swerve one jot from his intention of being a potent factor in the movement for the improvement of New York's municipal government.

During the sessions of the Lexow committee, which have resulted in so many startling exposures of so called police protection of the disorderly classes, Mr. Goff has shown, even more remarkably than he did when assistant district attorney, his power to put leading questions and to drive them home. He has reduced cross examination to an exact science.

Mr. Goff believes in Irish home rule and for that reason is very popular among his compatriots. On one occasion, in 1876, he rendered the Fenian cause great service by engineering the rescue of six prisoners from the penal colony at Freemantle, Western Australia. The late Dion Boucicault, the actor, almost at the very moment that the rescue was being effected in Australia, was pleading with the then prime minister, Disraeli, for the pardon of the six men.

HELPED WELCOME BILL NYE.

Bartlett S. Nye Was In at the Birth of the Humorist.

On one of the busiest corners of one of Boston's busiest streets stands an old fashioned grocery store presided over by Bartlett S. Nye, a gentleman who has never done much to distinguish himself above his fellows, but has approximated greatness by being born the uncle of Edgar W. Nye, the philosopher who writes such funny things for the newspapers. The grocer likes to talk about the Nye family, and in a recent conversation with a Boston reporter gave out this information:

Bill was born on a farm at Shirley, Piscataquis county, Me., in 1850, at a time when there was nothing but a saw mill in sight of the place. The first Nyes landed at Cape Cod many a generation ago, and Bill's great-grandfather went from Cape Cod and settled in Maine. His grandfather was born at Kennebec, and his father (my brother), Franklin Nye, was born at Norridgewock, Me.

His father's principal business was that of a lumberman—that's what all of the Nyes went up into Maine for—and besides his lumber interests Franklin Nye owned the small farm on which Bill first saw the light of day. I helped welcome Bill when he was a few hours old, and then I didn't see him again for two years, until brother and sister-in-law brought him to Fairfield, Me., where I was living at the time.

In 1852 I got the gold fever and went to Australia, where I stad until 1871, when I came back to America by way of California. In 1878 I came to Boston and settled here.

In the meantime Bill Nye had grown up and grown famous by the writings with which all newspapers readers are familiar. Bill's father died at River Falls, Wis., in 1887. Of the mother Bartlett Nye said:

Oh, yes, Bill's mother is still living at River Falls. And what a mother she is too. She has always lived for her boys, and they owe many of their good traits of character to her gentleness. She is one of the finest women in the universe and a credit to her native state, Maine. The other boys? Oh, yes, I won't forget them. Frank is prosecuting attorney at Minneapolis, and was nominated for governor, and served as state assemblyman. Carroll is the attorney for one of the big western railway companies. Succeeding? Indeed they are. Smart boys, too, every one of them. But Bill's the only one with any long of the writer in him.

I don't know who Lincoln's humor from. I don't believe much in the hereditary business anyhow. The fact is, we've all got a streak of funniness, and Bill's just happened to run out through his pen. He could always write funny things, and he got a grip on his line and held fast. The world knows the rest of his history better than I could tell it. We are all proud of him, and as for being Bill I'd much prefer to be his uncle.

"ADAMANT" WALL PLASTER!

The New, Cheap Substitute for Common Plaster.

It is very hard and very adhesive; it does away with the warping and shrinkage of doors and casings, and the building is not saturated with water, as it necessarily must be when common plaster is used; it costs originally but little more than lime plaster, and in dry and its superior qualities make it immeasurably cheaper; it saves waiting several weeks or months for the building to dry out; it does not crack or fall off, even in the case of leakage; it is applied easily by any good plasterer; it is the only material with which repairing can be done neatly and "to stay."

Religious Foot Washing In Paris.

The church, being fond of striking contrasts, put forth all her pomp while the archbishop was going through the humiliations of the ceremonial. Strictly speaking, there is no foot washing. The 13 indigent old men had their feet washed before they came to the cathedral.

When seated there in a row, stockingless, but with slippers resembling those worn by seabathers at Trouville, the archbishop approaches them, attended by his vicars general. One of these ecclesiastics bears a golden ewer, with a narrow neck, in which is scented water, and the other a basin and napkins of fine damask linen. A footstool is before each old man. The basin is set on it by the archbishop. This done, the person whose feet are to be washed withdraws them from the canvas slippers and holds them over the basin. His grace then pours a few drops of water over each foot. This done, a towel is handed to him, and he wipes the water away.

As there are 12 persons to be attended to, this office, which is taken to symbolize Christian charity and humility, is repeated as many times. A grand procession, followed by an anthem, ends the service.—Paris Correspondent London News.

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the best interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,

Why the Call Was Shortened.

A lady who had attained considerable wealth was calling on a new neighbor yesterday. She is much given to bragging and was going far beyond any previous effort. The neighbor seemed to be taking it all in seriously, but you never can tell much about a woman. Finally, Mrs. Swell said:

"Oh, Mrs. Cool, you have such a pretty little home! You ought to be very proud of your home. Why, I can remember when I didn't have much better than this myself."

Mrs. Cool responded, "Yes, I think it was when you worked in my aunt's kitchen."

The call was perceptibly shortened.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

A Poor Race.

"Mrs. McManus, you're a lady, and your husband's a gentleman, but your son Moike cums from a family of robbers, so he does."—Truth.

The Secrets of Her Heart.

"Now, Maud," said Edgar, with a complacent smile, "I am ready to try that little experiment. I am sure I can bring you under the hypnotic influence if you will agree not to resist. Just put your mind in a passive condition. Try to think of nothing at all. No, do not say you will think of me. Be serious. Now, lean back comfortably. That's right. Fix your eye on that light now, and don't forget to keep your mind a blank. I will count 60 seconds by my watch."

The girl followed directions literally. In 20 seconds her eyelids blinked; in 40 they closed.

"Ah, I knew I would succeed," exclaimed Edgar, highly elated. "Now, Maud, I command you to tell me the secrets of your heart. Whom do you love? Tell me, I command you."

A momentary expression of resistance crossed the girl's face. Then she spoke in a monotone. "I love Edgar Popham, and"—

"Yes, yes!" cried Edgar, trembling with delight. "Go on. Tell me all the secrets of your heart."

"I love Edgar Popham," continued the girl in the same tone, "and I would love him more if he were not so stingy. I want to go to the theater twice a week, and he takes me only once in three months. I want diamond rings, and he gives me rings with cheap stones in them. I want a drive in the park once or twice a week and I never get it. When I go out with him and get hungry, he never thinks of oysters. When I"—

"Enough!" cried the young man. "Awake! I command you!" and he fled, without waiting to see the result of his command.

As the front door slammed the young girl opened her eyes, smiled sweetly and said:

"I hope I did not spring too much on him at once. Perhaps I should have let the drive and oysters go till another time."—Tit-Bits.

A Mixed Company.

Some recruits were being drilled at Aldershot by a very impatient cavalry drill sergeant. After about an hour of hard drilling at the sword exercise, the sergeant gave the order, "Stand at ease." No sooner were the men standing at ease than the sergeant commenced to complain of their attitudes, and wound up by saying:

"Why, you fellows are like a lot of dummies. I can get smarter soldiers than you at a shilling per box."

After a minute's hesitation one of the recruits remarked:

"I suppose there would be some sergeants among them."—Tit-Bits.

"UP IN A BALLOON, BOYS."

Successful Ascension at Harlem Park, Saturday Afternoon—The Parachute Jumps of the Professor and His Wife, Mlle. La Mount—Every One Pleased With the Free Show

If the elements had smiled upon aeronauts "Prof." Wolcott and Mlle. Nellie La Mount on the Fourth of July, with the same favor that was bestowed upon them on Saturday evening, the vast crowd which was present at Harlem Park on that day, would have been thoroughly satisfied that it had received its money's worth, and instead of denouncing Managers Lea and Corey as "fakirs" would have been loud in its praises of those gentlemen for having provided such an excellent entertainment.

A prominent showman once declared that the American public takes particular delight in being fooled, and it is safe to say that nine out of every ten of the thousand people who "dead headed" it at Harlem Park, on Saturday afternoon, did so, anticipating a repetition of Wednesday's fiasco.

Many persons who arrived at the park early in the evening "merely came out for the ride, don't you know? Don't expect to see much, but it's a free show, etc., etc."

But for once the public was fooled in the right direction. The balloon ascension and parachute leaps were all that could possibly be desired, and quite up to the promises made by the "professor" in his advertisements.

During the afternoon a high, westerly wind prevailed, and it looked extremely doubtful whether it would be safe for the daring aeronauts to undertake their perilous journey skyward.

The "professor," however, began his preparations for the aerial voyage and promised the crowd that if the wind did not abate he would postpone the ascension until Monday or from day to day, until he had fulfilled his promises. At 6.30 o'clock the wind "died out" and the work of inflating the huge balloon was begun.

At 7.10 everything was in readiness, and the aeronauts taking their instructions upon the trapeze, the professor gave the word, "Let her go!"

The dozen men who were struggling to keep the inflated monster upon terra firma released their holds, and away it shot straight up into the air, almost jerking the arms out of the nervy aerial navigators.

There was scarcely a breath of air stirring, and the balloon had reached a height of fully 100 feet before the aeronauts had regained sufficient composure to shout and wave a farewell to the awe-stricken crowd.

Away it soared, higher and higher, taking a slight easterly couse. The figures on the trapeze grew smaller and smaller, until they resembled monkeys more than human beings, and finally became mere specks beneath the forty-foot balloon, which now resembled a huge foot ball.

Suddenly a shout went up from the crowd. The professor had "taken a drop." Down he came at a tremendous rate of speed, and it looked as if the "rag" he held would never open, but to the relief of the crowd the parachute finally spread out like a huge umbrella, and it sailed earthward like a large bird, the professor meanwhile performing all sorts of gymnastic feats upon the bar of his trapeze, and landing safely in a field west of Mr. C. Emmet Crawford's 'Homestead" farm.

The balloon receiving increased impetus by reason of its discharge of human ballast, continued its journey skyward. Higher and higher it rose, and as the daring young woman remained on her high perch the crowd thought some accident had befallen her or that she feared to take the leap.

An instant later, however, a suppressed exclamation of terror proclaimed that something had happened, and her slight figure was seen to drop into space, followed by what looked like a long string The drop appeared to be twice the distance of that made by the man, before the parachute opened, and the crowd heaved a great sigh of relief when the apparatus filled with air and came sailing slowly and majestically toward mother earth.

Mlle. La Mount landed safely about a half a mile east of the spot where the professor landed, and the balloon, freed from its weight, turned upside down, discharged its volume of hot air and smoke, dropped to the ground, and the show was over.

Arrested for Stealing His Own Horse.

The man who was arrested in Port Jervis, Friday, as a horse thief, turns out to be a brother of the man who sent the telegram requesting the arrest, and a half owner of the property. He is of unsound mind and left home with the rig without his brother's knowledge.

For the relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

WORKING FOR THE BABIES.

Busy Scenes at the Big Vermont Establishment Where Lactated Food Is Prepared for All Parts of the World.

Mothers are everywhere related by the mere fact of motherhood.

Their joys, their sorrows and their needs are the same all over the world.

Think of the countless babies in London, in Canada and even in distant Australia, who are growing up rosy cheeked and bright eyed on the same diet of Lactated food that mothers in America know so well.

Only those who have visited the big establishment at Burlington, Vt., in summer, have any idea of the tremendous amount of this world famous baby food, which is weekly produced at the central establishment. As the wea her grows warmer every effort is made to meet the enormous demand for lactated food, not only in this country and Canada, but from the various branches in foreign countries. It is from the London branch house that goods are forwarded to the large cities of Europe and the east, among the largest shipments being those sent to India and to the Australian branch, located at Sydney, N. S. W.

A visit to this busy establishment in Burlington never fails to make a lasting impression on every mother and any one, who is at all interested in the question of a reliable baby food that will be a genuine substitute for mother's milk. The absolute cleanliness in every process, and the arrangements for meeting the big demands in July and August without undue haste or carelessness that might interfere with the perfection of the food, always delight visitors.

Strikes are unknown among these busy persons, because, with the constant demand for lactated food at all seasons, wages are kept up, so that the employed have come to feel their own interest bound up with those of the establishment. By this friendly, co-operative spirit among all, who are concerned with the preparation of lactated food, it has been possible to produce a baby food absolutely pure, all the ingredients of which are carefully elaborated and conscientiously combined.

Physicians, after inspecting these buildings, which are models of neatness and convenience, unhesitatingly prescribe lactated food for invalids especially as the direct supervision of the preparation of the food has been from first to last under one of the professors of Vermont's famous university. Lactated food is, to-day, everywhere prescribed as the one real substitute for healthy mother's milk, combining excellence never before secured of marvelous nourishing powers and yet being taken by all babies with decided relish when every other food is rejected.

All that is needed to keep baby perfectly well in summer and safe from cholera and diarrhea, that carry off so many thousand babies during the hot weather, is proper nourishment and cleanliness. These two indispensible qualities are found in lactated food, and this is how it has earned that splendid reputation of the infant food that "saves babies' lives."

BECAUSE SHE WOULDN'T MARRY HIM

A Port Jervis Girl Turns the Tables on the Man Who Caused Her Arrest.

Mrs. Adelaide Pooley and Miss Carrie Worth, the latter a very pretty girl, whose home is in Port Jervis, were arraigned before Justice Potts in Jersey City, Saturday morning, for keeping a disorderly house, known as the Old Homestead, at Fourth and Monmouth streets.

The complaint was made by Arthur Dolson, of Ridgewood, N. J., who said he acted at the instigation of the Rev. John L. Scudder. Miss Worth claimed that Dolson made the complaint because she had refused to marry him. She produced in support of her allegation, several letters written to her by Dolson. Justice Potts dismissed the complaint and Chief Murphy then placed Dolson under arrest on a charge founded upon his own admissions. Miss Worth was held as a witness.

ESCAPED JAIL BIRDS.

Fifty Dollars Reward for Prisoners Escaped from the Norwich Jail.

Captain Grier, this morning, received a postal card from Sheriff Lally, of Norwich, Chenango county, offering $50 reward for the apprehension of Clifford Houghton and James Tobin, who broke jail there, Friday night, July 6th.

Houghton, alias "Ahab," is described as nineteen years old, five feet eleven inches tall, wore dark suit. Habitually walks with hands in pockets and chews gum incessantly.

James Tobin is five feet five inches tall, twenty-seven years old, talks with strong Irish accent, small light moustache, black clothes and black slouch hat.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

A COMMON QUESTION.

WHERE MAY WOMEN GO FOR HELP?

How Many American Women Have Asked This Question of Themselves.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

You may call it dangerous modesty if you will. It is in woman's heart, and is part of woman's nature

She shrinks from telling her physical troubles to men.

During the past 20 years thousands of women throughout the world have written in womanly confidence to Lydia E Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and laid bare the life of misery they endured

They wrote freely, knowing that their letters went direct to the hands of a woman who not alone understood their sufferings but whose heart was full of sympathy with them. The experience of thousands has proved how carefully, their letters were studied, and how true and sure came the answer and helpfulness.

You may be suffering daily when you need not. You can tell the story of your pain to a woman, and get the help that only a woman can give.

A young lady from Boston writes to a friend, saying:—"They said I was consumptive, sent me away, told me to keep quiet, no excitement, no tennis. Just think of it! One day I found a little book called 'Guide to Health,' by Lydia E. Pinkham. In it I found out what ailed me, so I wrote to her; got a lovely reply. She told me just what to do, and I am in splendid health now."

The same assistance is waiting for you. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has relieved more female suffering than any other medicine in the world.
